

Make Your Own Reed Diffusers

How cool to have a reminder of Mary anointing Jesus' feet as a scent filling your house! Bake your own reed diffusers to spread a beautiful perfume through your house.

All you need is some bamboo skewers (or actual reeds, of course), some small-mouthed jars (the pictures above were from a spice rack at the thrift store for $2), and some liquid potpourri (or make your own scent from essential oils, etc.). You can find liquid potpourri at the dollar store and at Wal-Mart for $3. It's not Scentsy, but it gets the job done!

Cut the bamboo skewers to be a more manageable size and decorate the jars. Grab some scrapbook paper, ribbon, and cross stickers. Wrap, tie and decorate all different designs until the jars looked beautiful enough to give as a gift!

When the perfume bottles are finished (filled with about an inch or two of the liquid potpourri & about 4 bamboo skewers), place one in every room of our house or give them away.
